Invitation to the IT for Science Forum

- Created by Köhn Philipp-Konstantin on 23. Sep 2022, last modified by Kracher Christian on 13. Oct 2022

? Unknown Attachment

Dear colleagues,

On Tuesday, 11 October 2022, 10:00–12:00 (GMT+02:00), the first IT for Science Forum will take place online via Zoom and will be held in English.

With the IT for Science Forum event series, the University of Vienna wants to create a platform to present researchers with current IT solutions, trend-setting developments and projects in the field of IT that can support them in their research work.

We are pleased that numerous registrations have already been received. All those who have not yet registered are hereby invited once again to the IT for Science Forum.

We are looking forward to your participation!

CIO Ulf Busch & Vice-Rector Ronald Maier

ⓘ Programme

Detailed information about the topics and speakers can be found on the IT4Science wiki page.

Opening

Digitalization for Researchers at the University of Vienna

The Role of the ZID in Supporting IT for Researchers

Topic 1: IT for Open Science

Open Science Landscape

Research Data Management and European Open Science Cloud: FAIR Data

Jupyter Notebook – Prototype in Computational Chemistry

Topic 2: Cloud

Cloud Strategy of the University of Vienna

Public Cloud Services: Microsoft Azure and AWS

Cloud Computing for Teaching and Research

Overleaf – Collaborative Online Latex Editor

Resumee

Koordination Digitale TransformationDigitalisation